FICTION for YOUNG ADULTS

WHERE YOUNG ADULT IS A POINT OF VIEW, NOT A READING LEVEL

FALL 2014
SEPTEMBER - DECEMBER
Ten years ago, up and coming author Laurie Faria Stolarz penned a wholly unique thriller that combined suspense, mystery, and magic. Quickly rising to become a New York Times bestseller, and now in its 18th printing, Blue is for Nightmares was the springboard that launched both FLUX and Laurie to unimagined heights.

Amanda Grace

Sometimes, the cost of love is too steep

Olivia’s twin brother, Joey, has been her best friend her whole life. But when he starts dating, Olivia is left feeling alone, so she tries to drive away Joey’s girlfriends in an effort to get her best friend back.

But she meets her match in Zoey, Joey’s latest fling. A call-it-like-she-sees-it kind of girl, Zoey sees right through Olivia’s tricks. What starts as verbal sparring between the two changes into something different, however, as they share their deepest insecurities and learn they have a lot in common. Olivia falls for Zoey, believing her brother could never get serious with her. But when Joey confesses that he’s in love with Zoey, Olivia has to decide who deserves happiness more: her brother or herself?

A darkly humorous and imaginative story

After she discovers The Terrible Thing, Easter Deetz goes looking for her sister, Julia, but ends up pinned under a giant boulder with her legs crushed into tomato paste. Bored, disappointed, and thoroughly dismembered, Easter slowly bleeds to death in The Woods with only sinister squirrels to keep her company. As The Something Coming draws closer, memories of Easter’s family surface like hallucinations: a mumbling father who lives alone in the basement; a terrifying grandmother who sits in her enclosed porch all day; an overly loving mother who plays dead in the bathtub on Sunday nights.

As the story of her life unspools, Easter realizes she’s being stalked, making it very difficult for her to bleed to death in peace. Will The Something Coming save her? Or will it do her in entirely?

Words and Their Meanings

Kate Bassett

Anna O’Mally has a story.
What she needs is a new beginning.

Raised in the dying auto-factory town of Saginaw, Michigan, seventeen-year-old Anna O’Mally is a born writer—gifted, perceptive, headed for the stars. Or she was, until the day a year ago when the person she loved most died. Joe, her uncle, was raised as her brother and was barely older than Anna herself. She worshipped the ground Joe walked on, treasured his opinions, and lived in the glow of knowing that she was the most important person in his world, too.

At Joe’s one-year deadiversary, Anna’s great healing is supposed to begin, but that looks totally impossible. And then she discovers a strange email that suggests she didn’t know her saintly uncle quite as well as she thought she did. When Anna’s beloved grandfather is struck with his last illness, it jump-starts a sequence of events that breaks open everything Anna thought she knew: about her family, the past, the possibilities of love—and origami.

Kate Bassett (Harbor Springs, MI) is the Michigan Press Association award-winning editor of her small town’s paper, Harbor Light News, and a contributing writer for the magazine Traverse. She has covered Mount Everest climbers, New York Times bestselling authors, and pet pig obituaries with the same philosophy for eleven years: voice matters.

“With a compelling voice and evocative prose, Kate Bassett establishes herself as an author to watch.”

All Those Broken Angels

Peter Adam Salomon

Comforted by a shadow. Haunted by the truth.

Richard Anderson was the last person to see his friend Melanie alive. She vanished when they were six and while the police never found Melanie, a part of her remained—a living shadow that is now Richard’s closest friend.

For ten years, Richard has never questioned the shadow that keeps him company . . . until a new girl moves to town, claiming to be Melanie. Desperate to prove the girl is a fake, the shadow leads Richard to the place where her killer buried her bones. But Richard finds skeletons from several different children . . . and evidence suggesting that perhaps the shadow isn’t who she says she is.

Peter Adam Salomon (Chapel Hill, NC) is a member of the Horror Writers Association, the Authors Guild, and the Society of Children’s Book Writers and Illustrators. He has served as a judge for the Savannah Children’s Book Festival Young Writers Contest and is on the executive committee of the Boston and New Orleans chapters of Mensa.

Of Scars and Stardust

Andrea Hannah

Claire knows they’re after her. For two years, they’ve been hunting her.

Two years ago, Claire Graham ran away from her hometown and a tragedy that still haunts her, even in New York City. But when she learns that her sister, Ella, has gone missing, Claire decides to return to Amble, Ohio, and face what happened there.

Determined to find Ella, Claire turns to Grant Buchanan, the soft-spoken boy from her past who, like Claire, has secrets he guards closely. The two of them navigate their growing attraction while following clues that Ella left behind. Through a series of cryptic diary entries, Claire tries to unlock the keys to Ella’s past—and her own—in order to prevent another tragedy. But not all things lost are meant to be found.

Andrea Hannah (Novi, MI) graduated from Michigan State University with a B.A. in special education. When she’s not teaching or writing, she spends her time running, traveling, and attempting to keep her pug out of the refrigerator.

A world where souls walk free and dreams become portals to the past

Lucy Aimes has always been practical. But even her rational mind can’t explain her dark and familiar dreams of a time long ago, filled with people she shouldn’t know, but does. When her family moves to New Orleans, Lucy’s dreams suddenly become more intense. Reluctantly drawn into the old city’s mystical undercurrent, she searches for answers about the nighttime visions that haunt her.

What Lucy finds is Alex, a mysterious boy who behaves as if they’ve known each other forever. They’ve only just met, and she shouldn’t be drawn to him, but she is. As she tries to unlock Alex’s secrets, a killer strikes close to home and a century-old vendetta unspools, putting Lucy and everyone she loves in mortal danger.

Creed
Trisha Leaver and Lindsay Currie

Three went in. Three came out. None even a shadow of who they once were.

When their car breaks down, Dee, her boyfriend Luke, and his brother Mike walk through a winter storm to take refuge in a nearby town called Purity Springs. When they arrive, the emergency sirens are blaring and the small farming town seems abandoned. With no other shelter, they spend the night in an empty house.

But they soon discover that not everything in Purity Springs is as it seems. When the town’s inhabitants suddenly appear the next morning, Dee, Luke, and Mike find themselves at the mercy of the charismatic leader, Elijah Hawkins, who plans to make Dee his new wife. Elijah’s son, Joseph, offers to help them escape . . . but the price of his help may be more than Dee and her friends can bear.

Trisha Leaver (Cape Cod, MA) is a freelance editor and member of SCBWI. She graduated from the University of Vermont with a degree in Social Work, which she uses in the social service field as a child advocate.

Lindsay Currie (Chicago, IL) graduated from Knox College and is a member of SCBWI, The American Horror Writers Association, The YA Scream Queens, and OneFourKidLit, a community of authors with debuts in 2014.

Very creepy psychological horror
Strong female lead
Elora needs a sacrifice. What she gets is love.

Elora, the young princess of the Dark Faeries, plans to overthrow her tyrannical mother, the Dark Queen, and bring equality to faeriekind. All she has to do is convince her mother’s loathed enemy, the Bright Queen, to join her cause. But the Bright Queen demands an offering first: a human boy who is a “young leader of men.”

Enter seventeen-year-old Taylor, an exile in his own home. Unable to forgive himself for the accident that took his little brother’s life, he has spent the past year living in the carriage house above his parents’ garage to distance himself from his deteriorating family. When Taylor meets Elora, who he believes to be a runaway, he senses a kindred spirit and lets her crash in his room. Elora is overjoyed that she may have found her sacrifice so quickly . . . until she finds herself falling in love with Taylor.

Chelsea Pitcher (Portland, OR) has always been fascinated by all things Faerie. She began gobbling up stories as soon as she could read, and especially enjoys delving into the darker places to see if she can find some light. She is the author of The S-Word (Simon & Schuster, 2013).

Bickering frenemies Meg and Shar are doing some serious damage at a midnight sample sale when they find themselves arguing over a pair of shoes—with fatal consequences. One innocent bystander later, the girls are suddenly at the mercy of Hades—god of the underworld. To make them atone for what they’ve done, Hades forces the teens to become special-assignment Sirens, luring to the Underworld any individual whose unholy contract is up.

“[F]unny and entertaining . . . Bennardo and Zaman are bringing the gods into the twenty-first century, and Meg and Shar get caught up in the fast-paced drama.” —Booklist
When Shar tries on a ring from Hades, it activates an obscure contractual clause that puts Shar and Meg in Hades’ service once more. Shar is whisked away to the Underworld to prepare a ball for Persephone, while Meg is sent to retrieve the errant soul of spoiled rich girl Paulina Swan-son and send her to the abyss.

Trade Paperback Original • 5 1/2 x 8 • 240 pp.
Jane and Holly have safely jumped off the bridge over their Alabama reservoir hundreds of times. Until one day, Holly’s jump goes wrong. Her body never comes up, but something else does—a sad creature of mud. It’s Holly, mixed up with the river, accidentally killing anything she touches. A Southern gothic tale of the friendship, grief, and redemption.

“Deliciously chilling . . . A solid creepfest from an author with potential.”

Cat Youngblood, a natural-born vampire hunter, shares a forbidden romance with Jesse, an ageless boy from a centuries-old vampire clan. Her job at a bookstore allows her to meet with Jesse secretly. When girls who look disturbingly similar to Cat start disappearing, Cat and Jesse discover frightening clues to their whereabouts in the books.

“Paranormal romance fans can get everything they want here, and others will find an exciting story. Well crafted.” —Kirkus Reviews

A Summer of Silk Moths
Margaret Willey
978-0-7387-1540-7 • US $9.95 CAN $11.50
Trade Paperback Original • 5½ x 8 • 264 pp.
Pete Shelton loves helping his friend Abe build Riverside, a nature preserve dedicated to the memory of Abe’s brother, Paul. Then one summer a troubled runaway shows up—a girl who claims to be Paul’s daughter.

“Characters are engaging and engrossing, and the well-written descriptions of rural Michigan are detailed and gorgeous.” —School Library Journal
